Boost for Bahrainisation as MPs approve expat worker permit fee hike

Mohammed Darwish TDT | Manama

irms face higher permit costs after Parliament approved a plan tying expat worker fees to Bahrainisation quotas following a heated debate yesterday.

The plan, led by MP Muneer Suroor, forces companies to employ more Bahrainis or face rising charges on foreign work permits over three years.

Firms employing fewer than 70 per cent Bahraini staff in roles considered appealing to locals will see permit costs rise by 20 per cent in the first year, 35 per cent in the second, and 50 per cent in the third.

Gender issues emerge as MPs back women-only college plan despite growing criticism

plan to create a women-only college at the University of Bahrain cleared Parliament yesterday, despite warnings from critics that it could reinforce outdated views on women's education.

MP Bader Al Tamimi, who proposed the idea, argued that a dedicated institution for female students would offer a more focused learning environment, free from distractions, while promoting privacy and comfort.

to your heart's content

Savour the heart and soul of Bahrain with every flavourful bite

Make your own Bahraini breakfast with these mouth-watering recipes!

have fond memories of my first Bahraini breakfast. LIt was during my first visit to a popular restaurant in Budaiya (There are many good ones in Manama and Muharrag too). Scores of locals and tourists flock to these traditional Bahraini-owned eateries to enjoy a glimpse of the culture and flavours. I browsed through the menu revealing a wide range of mouthwatering options. Everyone was seated on benches placed close to one other, so it was more like a community getting together over breakfast, which was nice. The pleasing whiff of flavours filled the air as servers delivered orders to anticipating, hungry customers. Bear in mind, I was still trying to order and all I could think of was the desire to taste everything! I love the variety of ingredients used in Bahraini breakfast recipes and how each dish has a flavour profile of its own. Bahraini cuisine has its influence from various countries such as the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Iran and India. Balaleet, Luqaimat and Chicken Nashif come from the UAE, while foul/ful medammes comes from Egypt. Liver fry, potato fry and kheema have Indian origins. One of the original Bahraini dishes is called 'Baid Tamat' aka Egg with Tomato. It is uses minimal ingredients and tastes great with fresh and hot bread 'Khubez Tanoor'. Finally, a ritualistic finish would be the chai karak, offering a punch to kick start the morning. Bahraini people are just like their food-they have their own charm, they are warm, comforting and welcoming, and so is this beautiful country.

If you decide to stay at home and relax during Bahrain national day holidays, try my recipe for Egg with Tomato and Chicken Liver Fry- two simple and comforting breakfast dishes that are very easy to prepare. Serve with khubz and chai karak or coffee and enjoy!

EGG WITH TOMATO

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 tbsp butter, 1 tsp oil
- 3 whole eggs
- 1 clove of garlic, finely chopped
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 1/4 tsp cumin powder
- 1/4 tsp red chilli flakes (Optional)
- 1/4 tsp black pepper powder
- 1 tsp chopped coriander leaves for garnish
- Salt to taste

METHOD:

In a non-stick frying pan, add butter and oil. When the butter melts, add the garlic. When the garlic turns light golden, Add the tomato, cumin, salt, chilli flakes and black pepper. Cook until tomatoes turn soft. Add 2 tbsps of water to aid the process. Mash the tomatoes and add 1 tbsp of water. Now add the eggs and whisk with a spatula or fork until the mixture comes together, the eggs are cooked and no water remains. Garnish with coriander and serve.

INGREDIENTS:

- 300-400 gms fresh chicken liver, cut into fours.
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 3 cloves of garlic, chopped
- 1 spicy green chilly, finely chopped
- 1 medium sized potato, boiled and cubed 1 tbsp green coriander leaves for garnish
- Powdered spices: 1/2 tsp cumin powder, 1/2 tsp coriander powder, 1/4 tsp turmeric powder
- Salt to taste
- Oil
- Lemon juice to drizzle

In a frying pan, add 2 tbsps of oil and add the onion and garlic. Saute until onion softens and turns pink. Add tomato and green chillies as well as the powdered spices. Sprinkle salt to taste. Add the chicken liver and cook until done. Add boiled potatoes and mix gently to combine. Add a little water to combine the ingredients. Finally, garnish with coriander leaves and drizzle with lemon juice while serving.

Why do we call it a 'Square Meal'?

ave you ever wondered why we say "square meal" when most of us eat from round plates? It is all thanks to sailors from the olden days! Back then, life on ships was rough, and so were the seas. Plates had to be tough, practical, and space saving. Enter the square wooden plate, also known as a trencher.

These plates were not just any plates. They were like the Swiss Army knives of dining ware—lightweight, stackable, and practically unbreakable. Some had raised edges, called fiddles, to keep the food from sliding away during choppy waters. Imagine your stew taking a nosedive onto your shipmate's lap—no thanks! The square shape was not random either. It made storage a breeze in the cramped quarters of a ship. Moreover, because they were so sturdy, sailors did not have to worry about their plates shattering if they slid off the table during a storm. Handy, right?

But, why "square meal"? On ships, the main meal of the day was served on these square plates. It was hearty, filling, and reliable-everything you would want in a meal. Over time, people started using "square meal" to mean any decent, satisfying meal. There is even a connection to "fair and square." Every sailor got their fair share of food on their trusty square plate. No arguments, no sneaky extra portions—just a square deal for everyone.

So next time you dig into a big, satisfying meal, think of those sailors balancing their square plates on the high seas. Who knew practicality and a good appetite could leave such a lasting impression?

♦ Syria must never be divided again, and Turkey will act against anyone seeking to compromise its territory, President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said yesterday. "From now on, we cannot allow Syria to be divided again," said the Turkish leader, speaking as neighbouring Syria embarked on a fraught period of uncertainty following the ouster of long-time president Bashar al-Assad. "Any attack on the freedom of the Syrian people.

let 'Syria be divided again': Erdogan the stability of the new administration, and the integrity of its lands will find us standing against it." Turkey has long worked to prevent Kurdish separatists from extending their influence in Syria, where they have dominated a large northeastern area since 2012. Ankara sees the Kurdish forces, notably the militant group YPG, as an extension of the banned PKK, which has fought a bloody insurgency against the Turkish state since the 1980s.

Bashar al-Assad ended an agonising wait for his family. The man, named as Osama Bashir Hassan al-Bataynah, was found in man returns Syria "unconscious and suffering from memory loss", Jordanian Foreign Ministry Soufian al-Kodat told AFP. Kodat said the man's relatives reported his disappearance in 1986, when he was just 18, and that he had been in jail ever since. "He was transferred from Damascus to the Jaber border crossing (with Jordan) where he was handed over to border guards," added Kodat, saying the man had been reunited with his family on Tuesday morning. The rebels who swept Assad from power on Sunday also opened the prisons and released thousands of detainees. Civil society groups had long accused Assad of presiding over a brutal regime of arbitrary arrests, torture and murder in prisons. Syria rebels name head of transitional govt

AFP | Damascus, Syria

The rebels who ousted president Bashar al-Assad and are now in power in Syria appointed a transitional head of government yesterday to run the country until March 1, a statement said.

"The general command has tasked us with running the transitional government until March 1," said a statement attributed to Mohammad al-Bashir on state television's Telegram account, referring to him as "the new Syrian prime minister".

Assad fled Syria as an Islamist-led rebel alliance swept into the capital Damascus on Sunday, ending five decades of brutal rule by his clan.

Abu Mohammed al-Jolani, the Islamist leader who headed the offensive that forced Assad out, had announced talks on a transfer of power and vowed to pursue former senior officials responsible for torture and war crimes.

His group, Hayat Tahrir al-Sham, is rooted in Syria's Al-Qaeda branch and is proscribed by many Western governments as a terrorist organisation, though it has sought to moderate its rhetoric.

Historic joint bid marks 100 years since first World Cup

Morocco becomes second African nation to host tournament

Saudi Arabia wins 2034 World Cup without competing bids

AFP | Lausanne

F IFA will confirm the hosts of the 2030 and 2034 World Cups on Wednesday, with a joint bid led by Morocco, Spain and Portugal set to be awarded the former, and the latter being handed to Saudi Arabia.

The awarding of hosting rights for both tournaments will go to a vote during a FIFA Congress to be held virtually. but there is no doubt about the outcomes with neither bid having a rival.

The 2030 tournament will mark a century since the first World Cup was held in Uruguay, and as a result the bid will also see the South American nation and Paraguay.

Dortmund coach Sahin warns of 'unbearable' fixture list

AFP | Dortmund

Borussia Dortmund coach Nuri Sahin yesterday lamented how the crowded fixture list has put an "almost unbearable" strain on players as his injury-hit side prepare to host Barcelona midweek.

Sahin announced centre-back Niklas Suele would miss "several months" with an ankle injury, the latest addition to Dortmund's overcrowded sick bay.

"The strain is almost unhave a break," said Sahin.

Pogacar to defend Tour de France and world title as 2025 programme unveiled 🟲adej Pogacar will race a number of classics and the Tour de France as well as either the Giro d'Italia or Vuelta in 2025, Team UAE sporting director Joxean Fernandez Matxin said yesterday.

The 26-year-old Slovenian dominated the 2024 season winning the Giro, the Tour and the world title. He will get his 2025 season underway at the UAE Tour.

"He will then do the Strade Bianche, Milan-San Remo, the E3 Grand Prix, Gent-Wevelgem and the Tour of Flanders Tadej Pogacar in action during a race (file photo) before the Ardennes classics," training. Matxin told a press conference

If he foregoes the Giro (May 9-June 1) in favour of the Vuelta (August 23-September 14), the Slovenian will take part in the Criterium du Dauphine (June 8-15) in preparation for the Tour de France.

"What's certain is that he won't be doing the three big Tours next year," Matxin added.

Pogacar is also due to defend his title at the World Championships in Rwanda in September, on a very demanding course in Kigali. He should then end his season on October 11 at the Tour of Lombardy, the last Monument of the year, where he will be aiming for a fifth consecutive
