Cheryl 'needs to master different accents'

Celebretainment | Los Angeles

Cheryl thinks her broad accent could hamper her acting ambitions. The 39-year-old pop star - who shot to fame as part of Girls Aloud - was born and raised in Newcastle upon Tyne in North-East England, and she admits that it'll be tough for her to master other accents.

Cheryl - who is currently starring in '2:22 A Ghost Story' at the Lyric Theatre in London - explained to The Independent: "I would have to really hone the craft of learning different accents if I wanted a real serious shot at acting."

"I mean, I've been here [in the south of England] for 20 years and I've still got a strong Geordie accent. There aren't many roles I could do with this accent."

Cheryl is embarking on a four-month stint in London's West End. But the 'Fight for This Love' hitmaker insisted she won't be worrying about her reviews.

She said:

"Why would I? It's not that I don't care - I do. But you know, I take supplements and go to the gym and do everything to stay healthy, so why would I then go and fill my mind with trash or toxicity?"

Cheryl announced that she was making her West End debut in December.

The singer took to Instagram to share the news with her followers.

She wrote at the time: "Hey!!! .. I am SO excited to be starring in the west end thriller @222aghoststory!!

"I will be playing the role of Jenny from January - April! I went to see the show with a previous cast and LOVED IT! (sic)"

Cheryl conceded that acting was "totally new" to her, but she was still looking forward to the challenge.

She said: "It is a totally new and exciting experience for me so if you're looking for a fun night out (and) some entertainment in your new year tickets are available now... whenever you're ready !! #222aghoststory. (sic)"

Tom Hanks reveals what led to his casting in the movie 'Splash'

Fox | Los Angeles

A small role in "Happy Days" led to a huge role in "Splash," according to Tom Hanks.

One of Hanks' first times as a leading man was in the movie "Splash." The actor said a small guest appearance (where he made a big impact) on "Happy Days" helped him land the leading role in the 1984 film.

Hanks was a guest star in an episode of "Happy Days" in 1982. His character, doctor and karate expert Dr. Dwayne Twitchell, kicked Fonzie, who was played by Henry Winkler.

"I kicked Fonzie," Hanks said on an episode of SiriusXM's

"The Jess Cagle Show." "I got dressed up in a judo karate outfit. And I think I'm legendarily the first guy to actually strike Fonzie. I kicked him through the stained-glass window of Al's Drive-in."

According to Hanks, this karate kick was what led him to be cast alongside Daryl Hannah in Ron Howard's "Splash."

"Ron Howard had already left the show, and he was directing, and they had written this movie called 'Splash.' And it was at Disney, and no one wanted to work for Disney, and no one would take the job," Hanks said.

The romance flick, which also stars Hannah, Eugene Levy and John Candy, ended up being a big success, earning an Oscar nomination for best writing, screenplay written directly for the screen.

The movie also helped skyrocket Hanks' career. After "Splash," a number of popular films followed for Hanks, including "Big," "Turner & Hooch," "A League of Their Own," "Sleepless in Seattle," "Forrest Gump," "Toy Story," "Saving Private Ryan," "Cast Away" and "The Polar Express," all the way up to his newest movies, "Elvis" and "Pinocchio" and "A Man Called Otto."

Not bragging enough is my biggest flaw, says Cardi B

Celebretainment | Los Angeles

Cardi B thinks "not bragging enough" is her biggest flaw.

The 30-year-old rapper - who is one of the world's best-selling music stars - believes she ought to be louder about her own achievements.

The 'Bodak Yellow' hitmaker - who worked as a stripper before finding success in the music business - wrote on Twitter: "My biggest flaw is not bragging enough."

Cardi - who has Kulture, four, and Wave, 16 months, with rap star Offset - subsequently posted a photograph of her younger sister, Hennessy, in two revealing outfits.

The images divided opinion among Cardi's social media followers - but the chart-topping star quickly fired back at the critics.

Cardi retweeted a message that read: "Why can't people say someone looks beautiful and GO? If Cardi looks beautiful or Hennessy looks beautiful just say that. The extra s*** just gives pressed and obsessed. Idk stop reaching (sic)"

Meanwhile, Cardi previously admitted to being happier before she became famous.

Robert Pattinson loves working with Dior

Celebretainment | Los Angeles

Robert Pattinson says being a Dior fragrance ambassador has been "one of the most enjoyable" experiences of his life.

The 'Batman' actor has been one of the faces of the brand for a decade and he loves the working relationship he has built up with the people working at the company.

He said: "I'm not even just saying it to be nice. It's been one of the most enjoyable work, and personal, experiences that I've ever had in my life."

But the 36-year-old actor - who is in a relationship with model Suki Waterhouse - admitted he isn't good at identifying his favourite scents, when it comes to fragrance, but the smell he loves most is one that's very personal.

He told ES magazine: "I mean, it's kind of cheesy - if you're in love with someone, their smell becomes very particular to you... so yeah, something like 'girlfriend in a dressing gown'."
