Putin: 25% of Russian gas supplies to Turkey will be paid for in roubles

Reuters | London

m R}$ ussian President Vladimir Putin said yesterday that 25% of Russian gas supplies to Turkey would be paid for in roubles, and that an agreement on this would come into force

Speaking during a meeting with Turkish President Tayyip Erdogan on the sidelines of a Shanghai Cooperation Organisation summit in Uzbekistan, Putin said: "Our agreement on deliveries of Russian natural gas to Turkey should come into effect in the near future, with 25% of payment for these deliveries in Russian roubles.

Since Western countries imposed sweeping sanctions over its Feb. 24 invasion of Ukraine, Russia has sought to conduct as many transactions as possible in currencies other than dollars or euros - the usual default currencies for energy contracts, in particular.

It has also demanded that payments for some gas exports be made in roubles, in some cases in contravention of existing contract terms.

Several European Union member states including Poland and Bulgaria have had gas supplies from Russia cut off after refusing to make the rouble payments.

Kyrgyz-Tajik border conflict escalates with alleged use of heavy weaponry

♦ Kyrgyzstan's service said that

Tajik forces once again opened fire on several of its outposts, an escalation of tension between the Russian allies after a brief confrontation earlier this week. Kyrgyz border guards were returning fire as clashes took place along the whole length of the border, the service said, adding that Tajik forces were using tanks, armoured personnel carriers, and mortars. In turn, Tajikistan accused Kyrgyz forces of shelling one of its outposts and seven villages with "heavy weaponry". A civilian was killed and three injured, authorities in the Tajik city of Isfara said.

legitimate for nations to supply weapons to Ukraine to help the country defend itself from Russian aggression. Speaking to reporters aboard a plane returning from a three-day trip to Kazakhstan, Francis also urged Kyiv to be open to eventual dialogue, even though it may "smell" because it would be difficult for the Ukrainian side. The war in Ukraine, which Russia invaded on Feb.

In a 45-minute-long airborne news conference, a reporter asked if it was morally right for countries to send weapons to Ukraine. "This is a political decision which it can be moral, morally acceptable, if it is done under conditions of morality," Francis said.

Judge rules for Trump, blocks review of seized classified records

US judge refused to let the Justice A Department immediately resume reviewing classified records seized by the FBI from Donald Trump's Florida estate in an ongoing criminal investigation, siding with the former president.

"The court does not find it appropriate to accept the government's conclusions on these important and disputed issues without further review by a neutral third party in an expedited and orderly fashion," Cannon wrote Thursday.

A Justice Department spokesperson and Trump's attorneys did not immediately return requests for comment.

Cannon's ruling further complicates the Justice Department's investigation. The special master's review could wall off documents from prosecutors as they weigh the possibility of criminal charges. Cannon on Thursday said she would

The Justice Department is investigating Trump for retaining government records - some marked as highly classified, including "top secret" - at his Mar-a-Lago estate in Palm Beach after leaving office in January 2021.

The department also is looking into possible obstruction of the probe after it found evidence that records may have been removed or concealed from the FBI when it sent agents to Mar-a-Lago in June to try to recover all classified documents through a grand jury subpoena.

The documents inquiry is one of several federal and state investigations that Trump is facing as he considers another run for the presidency in 2024.

AMBASSADOR OF AZERBAIJAN TO SAUDI ARABIA SHAHIN ABDULLAYEV

ver the past month, the provocations of the Armenian armed forces have exaggerated in Azerbaijan's Dashkasan, Lachin and Kalbajar districts, near the state border. Azerbaijani Army's positions in those districts have been fired from different types of weapons which are intensive, including mortars. The recent attacks clearly manifest Armenia's hypocrisy and rivalry against Azerbaijan and the peace process

The most troubling reality is that the last meetings held in Brussels between President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev, Armenia's premier Nikol Pashinyan, and European Council President Charles Michel both states with the facilitation of the European Union were just a false front of cooperation from the Armenian side. The leadership of Yerevan was never true to the cause of peace and humanity. The hostile armed forces have been continuously escalating conflict and military interventions near Azerbaijan's border areas along with the deployment of large-caliber weapons and heavy equipment which is a vivid example of Armenia's vicious agenda to sabotage peace.

Official Yerevan's action undermines the Brussels meeting after which Azerbaijan proposed to hold a meeting between the foreign ministers of two countries at the end of September, to launch negotiations on the normalization of relations between the two countries based on mutual recognition and respect for each other's territorial integrity, sovereignty, and state borders but the peaceful proposal of Azerbaijan was left unanswered by Armenia.

The Azerbaijani government and Foreign investors has allocated state funds (3 billion) towards rebuilding territories liberated from Armenian occupation along with wide-range post-conflict reconstruction and rehabilitation works. Military clashes are an immediate danger to these projects because Azerbaijan is trying to take reciprocal measures to ensure the safety and security of the civilian workers involved in infrastructure activities in the Kalbajar and Lachin districts. However, ceasefire violation, provocation, ecological crimes, state-sponsored terrorism, and planting landmines have remained noticeable strategies of the Armenian offensive realist approach.

Also just a few days ago, the Azerbaijani side demonstrated another good-will gesture and released five more citizens of Armenia detained in Azerbaijan. This process took place directly between Azerbaijan and Armenia without mediation of any third party as an indicator of goodwill with a view to contributing to the peace process. The Republic of Azerbaijan, demonstrating its commitment to the international humanitarian law and the values of humanism, calls on Armenia to ceasefire and states that they are ready to hand over corpses of about 100 Armenian servicemen, who were killed while preventing provocation committed against the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan on September 12-13 of this year. The International Committee of the Red Cross was also informed of this issue.

Armenia without any delay must come back to the table of peace talks. Peace genda is extremely required for security, prosperity, and coexistence neighbourhood.

As a result of Armenia's thirty-year illegal occupation of Karabakh and Eastern Zangazur, large-scale and difficult humanitarian demining activities were carried out, but Armenia continues to plant mines in the territories of Azerbaijan deliberately. Therefore, it is a high-time the international community must witness Armenian aggression toward Azerbaijan and stark violation of the fundamental norms and obligatory rules of the ceasefire agreement. The country must be held accountable for its provocative acts and violations. These recent military escalations. vandalism of resources, and blasts have sabotaged the trilateral truce protocol and regional stability due to the Armenian conventional nature of war. The leadership has been yet again exposed due to its aggression and pessimistic strategic approach.

Moreover, during the nearly 30-year illegal Armenian occupation of the Karabakh region, environmental crimes, including deforestation, illicit trafficking of natural resources, and contamination of water reserves, became common. It has also been confirmed that Armenians have been deliberately contaminating the rivers to disturb the environment, and agriculture and create humanitarian disasters in

The Pashinyan administration has been fully trying to overturn the trilateral ceasefire agreement. It wants to wage war to redraw the political map of the Caucasus region. War has always been pointless, yet Armenia, through its hostile moves continue to annihilate deaths, atrocities and jeopardize security via agreement violation. Despite the international interventions to establish peace, the ill-will of Yerevan is blunt to challenge the efforts.

The war has been over, and the world has come to know the rightful claim of Azerbaijan as it liberated the regions. However, Armenia has been still trying to light a fire beneath the ashes and igniting hostile sentiments through its violations, resulting in chaos and causalities. Yerevan leaders have a narcissist approach and are war-obsessed, aiming at creating instability in the region. Azerbaijan, on the other hand, has always remained true to the cause of peaceful co-existence and cooperation. The visionary leader, President Ilham Aliyev has showcased strategic discipline and followed all protocols for regional development and joint collaboration.

Ukraine says hundreds of bodies found in mass burial site

Ukrainian officials said they had found a mass burial site with hundreds of bodies in territory recaptured from Russian forces, in what President Volodymyr Zelenskiy called proof of war crimes by the invaders.

Zelenskiv told Reuters in an interview many Ukrainians were also buried in other sites in the northeast and appealed for foreign powers to step up weapons supplies, saying the outcome of the war hinged on their swift delivery.

"As of today, there are 450 dead people, buried. But there are others, separate burials of many people. Tortured people. Entire families in certain territories," Zelenskiy said in his presidential office yesterday.

The head of the pro-Russian administration which abandoned the area last week dismissed the accounts of the burials outside the city of Izium and accused Ukrainians of stage-managing atrocities. "I have not heard anything about burials in Izium," Vitaly according to our information television.
