Lebanon-Israel maritime deal signing date set Beirut

Lebanon and Israel will sign an agreement on demarcating their maritime border on Oct. 27, a source in the Lebanese presidency revealed yesterday.

"Arrangements have begun to be made in (the city of) Naqoura, where the UNIFIL (UN Interim Force in Lebanon) headquarters are, to receive the delegations of the two countries to sign separately the agreement document and hand over a copy of it to the American side and a copy to the UN," the source said.

"American mediator Amos Hochstein will come to Naqoura to attend the signing process."

On Oct. 11, President Michel Aoun announced Beirut's approval of the US demarcation proposal, saying the agreement would "lift Lebanon from the abyss in which it was plunged."

Last week, Israeli Prime Minister Yair Lapid described the agreement as "historic."

The Lebanese and Israeli sides, through American mediation, engaged in indirect negotiations that lasted two years.

Truss economic policies 'mistake'

Biden criticises UK Prime Minister plan, saying economic turmoil had been 'predictable'

Portland, Oregon

US President Joe Biden has called Liz Truss's original economic policies "a mistake".

In an unusual intervention, he said the economic turmoil that followed the government's mini-budget had been "predictable".

Speaking at an ice cream shop in Oregon, Biden was asked by reporters about the prime minister's attempt to boost growth with unfunded tax cuts - what the reporter called the "trickle-down plan that she has had to back away from".

The president replied: "Well, it's predictable. I wasn't the only one that thought it was a mistake."

He added: "I think that the idea of cutting taxes on the su-ment, not me."

Biden has long been critical of the economic theory at the heart of the prime minister's policy, namely that cutting taxes on businesses and the rich generates growth that allows wealth to "trickle down" to all sectors of society.

But it is unusual for the president of the US to be so critical of the leader of one of America's closest allies.

Biden has been criticised in the past for not doing enough to support UK-US relations, preferring instead to focus his transatlantic relationship on Dublin, Paris and Berlin.

But he is not alone on the world stage in being puzzled at the way Britain is being governed and the choices being made by its politicians.
