The Israeli justice ministry published a list of 95 Pales-⊥ tinian prisoners, the majority women, who are to be freed starting Sunday as part of the first exchange for Israeli captives under a Gaza ceasefire deal.

'The release of prisoners is... subject to government approval of the (ceasefire) plan and will not take place before Sunday 16:00 (1400 GMT)," the ministry said in a statement yesterday. The list includes 69 women, 16 men and 10 minors. According to the ministry, the youngest inmate on the list is 16. The list includes only seven prisoners who were arrested before the October 7, 2023 attack by Hamas on Israel that sparked the war in Gaza.

Among those on the list is also Khalida Jarar, a leftist Palestinian lawmaker whom Israel arrested and imprisoned on several occasions.

Two sources close to Hamas told AFP that the first group of hostages to be released consists of three Israeli women soldiers. The agreement, brokered by the United States, Egypt, and Qatar, outlines a 42-day truce during which several key actions are planned.

This ceasefire is seen as a significant step toward peace, offering hope to residents of Gaza and Israel.

Even before the start of the truce, Gazans displaced by the war to other parts of the territory were preparing to return home.

"I will go to kiss my land," said Nasr al-Gharabli, who fled his home in Gaza City for a camp further south in the territory.

"If I die on my land, it would be better than being here as a displaced person."

Egypt was on Friday hosting technical talks on the implementation of the truce, according to state-linked media.

French President Emmanuel Macron said French-Israeli citizens Ofer Kalderon and Ohad Yahalomi were on the list of 33 hostages to be freed in the first phase.

Biden said the second phase could bring a "permanent end to the war".

In aid-starved Gaza, where nearly all of its 2.4 million people have been displaced at least once, aid workers worry about the monumental task ahead.

Mohammed Darwish TDT | Manama

Aproposal to establish a dedicated pathway and specialised medical team for sickle cell patients at Salmaniya Medical Complex will be put to a vote in Parliament next Tuesday.

The proposal, submitted by MP Maryam Al Dhaen, calls for a separate section within the emergency unit to be staffed by specialists to ensure immediate and effective treatment for sickle cell anaemia patients. The Services Committee has unanimously endorsed the initiative, emphasising its alignment with Article 8 of Bahrain's Constitution, which guarantees healthcare for all citizens and mandates the state to build and maintain medical facilities.

The Bahrain Society for SCD Patients Care praised the proposal as a significant step toward improving patient welfare. The society also urged the government to take additional measures, including the creation of a dedicated care pathway for women to address their specific needs. It called for an increase in the number of trained staff focused on sickle cell care and ongoing professional development to better equip medical teams to handle emergencies and hospital treatments effectively.

Ahmed Al Salloom, MP

Mohammed Darwish TDT | Manama

 ${f A}$ proposal to establish a digital contact centre for real-time sign language interpretation, designed to help hearing-impaired individuals access government services, has gained unanimous approval from Parliament's Services Committee.

The initiative, submitted by MPs Ahmed Sabah Al Salloom, Mohammed Al Marafi, Iman Shuwaiter, Zainab Abdulameer, and Khalid Buanaq, aims to promote equality by providing direct assistance to hearing-impaired citizens through specialised services in government institutions.

While supporting the proposal's objectives, the Civil Service Bureau suggested that training existing staff in sign language and adopting video communication technologies could achieve similar results. This approach, the bureau noted, would align with Bahrain's 2023-2026 government programme, which prioritises digital transformation to enhance public services.

The Ministry of Social Development pointed out that the plan involves collaboration among multiple government bodies, requiring a coordinated implementation strategy.

The proposal reflects a broader commitment to inclusion, ensuring that all members of society can access essential services seamlessly.

 Orders BD4,000 Repayment After Failure to Dispute Debt

The Lower Civil Court has ordered a company to pay BD4,000 to an individual after it failed to honour a repayment agreement and did not dispute the evidence against it.

The company was also directed to cover legal costs and attorney

The claimant presented a signed debt acknowledgment from the company, stating that BD4,000 would be repaid in monthly instalments of BD300. Despite multiple requests, the company failed to make any payments.

The company, though represented in court, did not deny the validity of the debt acknowledgment or challenge the claimant's evidence.

The claimant's lawyer, Latifa Al Saadoun, noted that the defendant made no attempt to question the debt or raise any legal objections.

After reviewing the case, the court determined that the company had not fulfilled its repayment promise and provided no legitimate defence.

The company later appealed the ruling, but the Court of Appeal upheld the original decision. The appellate court dismissed the appeal, stating that the company had failed to provide new evidence or arguments, and its lack of engagement only strengthened the case against it.
