Johnny Depp unveils new art collection Tarot

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Johnny Depp has revealed a new art collection inspired by his own life.

The 'Pirates of the Caribbean' actor has explored the themes of parenthood, love, relationships and career in the new series 'Tarot', which is limited to 195 editions and features four works titled 'The Lovers', 'The Empress', 'The Emperor' and 'Strength'.

Johnny said of the collection: "I've always been tremendously curious about tarot... and there's a great art to the cards".

'The Lovers' marks "the beginning of the story" and features a cinematic scene of a male holding a rose as he wards off danger and "protects" the female, while 'The Emperor' - who is styled as a 17th century French Monarch - was inspired by a work the 61-year-old star created while filming 'Heanne Du Barry' in Versailles.

He said of the figure: "He's not really there... It kind of represents ignorant power. I certainly wouldn't dare put my own face as an emperor. Never. I made 'The Emperor' somewhat faceless because if you put the Emperor next to the Empress who do you trust?... The Empress."

And 'The Empress' pays tribute to Vanessa Paradis, the mother of Johnny's two children, and is inspired by a painting the 'Black Mass' star did which featured on the cover of the French singer's album 'Divinidylle'.

He said: "I know who she is inside. She's magnificent. She's pragmatic. She's practical."

Of the Empress' tarnished crown, he added: It looks like a crown that has weathered storms. It shows a certain courage and strength of commitment... the Crown has been through a lot; she still shines."

Khloe Kardashian advised to get therapy

Khloe Kardashian has been told she needs therapy.

Both Khloe's sister Kim Kardashian and Khloe's best friend Malika Haqq have advised the reality TV star to see a therapist to help her cope with issues in her personal life but Khloe doesn't feel like she needs one.

On the latest episode of 'The Kardashians', Kim told Khloe that she was returning to therapy and added that "[you should] be on this journey with me."

And, when discussing plans for Khloe's 40th birthday, Malika suggested: "We do have to celebrate your birthday really big. Should we do an 'Eat Pray Love' for your birthday?" "It's indirect therapy. It's like the kind of therapy you want to do."

Kim Kardashian fears she's becoming a 'full robot'

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Kim Kardashian is worried she's been "turning into a full robot" with "no emotion". The 43-year-old beauty was robbed at gunpoint in Paris in 2016 and the trauma has left her "frozen" in knowing that staying cool saved her from being seriously hurt during the terrifying ordeal, so she wants to work through what happened with her therapist before she stops being able to express herself.

Speaking on the latest episode of 'The Kardashians', Kim - who has four children with ex-husband Kanye West - told her sister Khloe Kardashian: "[My therapist] was like, 'You think calm is your superpower. I think you are so desensitized from trauma that you literally are frozen in fight or flight.'"

"So then she was like, 'One time in life something happened, and you remained calm, and that worked for you. So you will always choose calm.'"

The Good American founder then insisted it didn't take a "detective" to realise it was the Paris robbery that had had such an impact on her sister's behaviour.

Khloe, 40, replied: "You Kim Kardashian weren't calm before. Kim, you were a lunatic. You became calm.

"You were never calm as a teenager, in your 20s. You cried about everything. You were bratty. You threw tantrums.

"Everything stopped after you got robbed, because you stayed calm in that situation and you even said, 'My calmness is what kept me alive.'"

"That's when it started. It doesn't take a f***** detective to figure that one out."

In a confessional, Kim admitted she was worried people would "take advantage" of her calm nature.

She said: "I mean, imagine you're like, gun to your head, getting tied up, dragged across a hotel room, and the guy, I remember him telling me, 'Just like, stay calm and you'll live.' And I did that.

"[It] served me well at that time, and I think it saved my life.

"But I think I've let it get too calm to where people could take advantage of my calmness or I'm just turning into a full robot with like, no emotion."

Kate Hudson inundated with flirty messages from celebs

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Kate Hudson was inundated with messages from famous men when she took a year off from dating.

The 45-year-old actress decided to take a break from relationships in her thirties but revealed that did not stop celebrities from sliding in to her DMs.

Speaking on 'Watch What Happens Live': "Look, it's a great way to meet people, and a great thing to make your ego feel wonderful. Like, 'Oh, that one snuck in.' But I had a ton [of DMs] ... I like to flirt, which is why I had to go through a year without flirting. Yeah, now it's done."

Kate - who is now engaged to Danny Fujikawa - first opened up about her celebrity admirers in May.

Speaking on the 'Call Her Daddy' podcast, she said: "I was at that place where I was like, 'I don't want to keep repeating any patterns anymore.'

"I have a great therapist who was like, 'I can help you, but you have to do it.'"

And, Kate believes the break from dating led her to Danny, 38, who she first started dating in December 2016.

The couple welcomed daughter Rani, five, in 2018 and Danny proposed in 2021.

Kate said: "His values are very sturdy, and he's such a lovely person. I would have never, I think, allowed that in if I didn't take those three years of just being so happy in my life alone."

Kate was previously married to Black Crowes singer Chris Robinson from 2000 to 2007 and they have son Ryder, 20, together.

Kesha wants to change the law after Dr Luke battle

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Kesha wants to change the law in the wake of her long-running battle with Doctor Luke.

The 37-year-old singer was locked in a legal row with the producer for several years after accusing him of drugging and raping her at a party, but was only able to leave his record label Kemosabe in December, six months after they settled their dispute out of court, and she wants to campaign for change after having lost "the rights to [her] recorded voice" because she didn't own her own master recordings.

Asked what being an independent artist means to her now, she told Forbes magazine: "It's wild that a human being can lose the rights to their recorded voice in perpetuity in the universe.

"First of all, changing litigation around that is something that's on my radar, so if this makes it into the interview - if anybody's reading this - I would love to connect because it's atrocious that's part of the business of making art."

The 'Joyride' hitmaker plans to use her own Kesha Records label to provide a "safe space" for other musicians.

She added: "Second of all, I have to say, currently I'm really excited to build a safe space for artists because creation and fear cannot co-exist. When you're in a state of fear, you cannot create, and I know this from personal experience.

"I'm really excited for Kesha Records to expand and grow in all the ways that people would think, but also in unexpected ways because I'm currently looking into the tech space and I'm looking to find partners who have the values that I align with.
